7. TEACHING METHODS AND LEARNING ASSESSMENT

7.1 Teaching Methods

The teaching methods used in the Vietnam Studies training program involve various teaching and learning activities. Specifically:

- Direct Instruction:

Direct instruction is a teaching method where information is conveyed directly to learners, with lecturers presenting and students listening. This teaching method is commonly applied in traditional classrooms and is effective when lecturers want to impart basic information or explain a new skill to learners. The teaching methods applied include: Lecturing and Guest Lectures.

- Indirect Instruction:

Indirect instruction is a teaching method where learners are facilitated in the learning process without any overt teaching activities performed by the lecturer. This is a learner-centered approach where the lecturer does not directly convey lesson content to the learners; instead, learners are encouraged to actively participate in the learning process, using critical thinking skills to solve problems. The teaching methods applied include: Case-Based Learning, Problem-Based Learning, and Inquiry-Based Learning.

- Experiential Learning:

Experiential learning is a teaching method where learners acquire knowledge and skills through what they experience during work, practice, real-world observation, and perception. Applied teaching methods include: Experiential Learning, Internship, Field Trip, Simulation, and Practice.

- Interactive Learning:

Interactive learning is a teaching method where learners combine various classroom activities such as posing problems or open-ended questions and requiring learners to discuss and debate to solve them. The teacher guides learners step-by-step through problem-solving, thereby helping them achieve learning objectives. Learners can learn from peers or teachers to develop social skills, critical thinking skills, communication, and negotiation to make decisions. Applied teaching methods include: Interactive Lecture, e-Learning, and Group Exercise.

- Self-Study:

Self-study is understood as all learning activities undertaken by individual learners with very little or no teacher guidance. This is a process that helps learners self-direct their learning based on their own learning experiences, having autonomy and control over their learning activities through assignments, projects, or problems suggested and guided by the teacher in class. The primary methods for this learning strategy are Work Assignment and Self-Directed Learning.

7.2 Learning Assessment

* Grading Scale:

A 10-point scale is used for all assessment forms within the course.

* Format, evaluation criteria, and scoring system.

a) Theoretical Course

No.	Assessment Method	Assessment Criteria	Scoring system
-----	-------------------	---------------------	----------------

1	Formative Assessment	Designed to be diverse to assess the extent to which learners achieve learning outcomes, for example: attendance, multiple-choice tests, essays, group assignments, group discussions, practical exercises, experiments, term papers.... (varies by course module) - Assessment criteria: Correct answers or adherence to the lecturer's requirements regarding content and presentation	30% or 40% or 50%
2	Summative Assessment	End-of-Course Exam Designed to be diverse to assess the extent to which learners achieve learning outcomes, for example: multiple-choice tests, essays, group assignments, group discussions, practical exercises, experiments, term papers.... (varies by course module) - Assessment criteria: Correct answers or adherence to the lecturer's requirements regarding content and presentation	70% or 60% or 50%

b) Practical Course

Students must attend all practical sessions. The average score of all practical sessions during the semester, rounded to one decimal place, constitutes the grade for the practical course.

c) Graduation Internship Course

40% process grade; 60% internship report grade.

d) Graduation Thesis Course

Implemented according to the University-level Training Regulations issued with Decision No. 1487/QĐ-DHQN dated July 1, 2021, by Quy Nhon University.

 *Assessment Methods

The assessment methods used in the Literature program are divided into two main types: Process Assessment and End-of-Course Examination Scores. Courses are assessed according to their program learning outcomes.

11. GUIDELINES FOR TRAINING PROGRAM IMPLEMENTATION

This training program is applied from the 2025 admission period for students of Vietnamese Studies (specializing in Culture and Tourism).

The training process is based on the designed curriculum, training objectives, target audience, human resource requirements, and specific training demands. For elective courses, depending on the actual development trends and societal needs, the Faculty will advise students on suitable courses.

The Head of the Faculty is responsible for organizing and guiding the principles for developing detailed syllabi to ensure that objectives, content, and requirements are met, while also satisfying the needs of learners and society.

The program is reviewed and updated every two years, responding to the development of Vietnamese Studies (specializing in Culture and Tourism) and aligning with socio-economic needs.
